

Truckers Seek Highway Bill Opening to Change Truck-Size Rules

By Kellie Mejdrich

February 5, 2015

Some of the country's biggest trucking companies are trying to get an early place in line for potential changes in highway regulations as Congress gears up for a new transportation bill.

The Coalition for Efficient and Responsible Trucking is renewing a push to extend the length of certain truck trailers, a move it says would reduce truck traffic on highways and, as a result, cut down on traffic accidents.

[...]